Subject: [EXTERNAL] - Malikie

Dear Sean,

This confirms our discussions regarding Malikie's request that BlackBerry provide us with copies of licenses to BlackBerry's cellular SEPs that Teletry entered into with handset manufacturers.

- You indicated that BlackBerry possesses a number of these agreements.
- You also indicated that the agreements generally contain confidentiality provisions that restrict the extent to which the parties can share copies of the agreements with third parties.
- As a result of confidentiality restrictions, you indicated that BlackBerry is not permitted to share copies of these agreements with Malikie, and that BlackBerry will therefore not voluntarily provide these agreements to Malikie.
- However, you indicated that the confidentiality provisions generally permit disclosure of the agreements pursuant a court order or subpoena, provided that there is a protective order (or its equivalent, such as a confidentiality club) to protect the confidentiality of the agreements, subject to certain notice provisions.
- In light of this, you further indicated that BlackBerry would not oppose any request for a court order, and that BlackBerry would not object to disclosure of the agreements pursuant to a court order or subpoena, provided that there are suitable confidentiality protections, such as a protective order or confidentiality club.

Please confirm BlackBerry's agreement with the above statements.

Thanks,

Angela
